FIRE REVENTION WEEK at McKinley school. David Patterson, sixth grade teacher and a volunteer member of the Harrisburg fire department, shows his class and the sixth grade class of J. A. Dillon the proper use of a fire extinguisher, putting out a fire in a model house with one on McKinley playground Wednesday afternoon. Top photo shows Patterson preparing to use extinguisher as house begins flaming and lower photo shows fire being extinguished quickly with extinguisher. An oral quiz on the grounds preceding the event showed the children had knowledge of the soda-sulphuric acid, the foam and the carbon tetrachloride types of extinguishers and on what to use the various types. They were all to write a short news account of the "fire" when they returned to their rooms. (Register Staff Photos)

State Dep't Denies Charges

Khrushchev Accuses Dulles of Inciting Turkey to Start War

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Communist Party Secretary Nikita S. Khrushchev has accused Secretary of State John Foster Dulles of inciting Turkey to start a war in the Mideast, the New York Times said today.

The accusation came in an interview Khrushchev granted Times chief Washington correspondent James Reston last Monday. The portion of the interview dealing with the Mideast was released for publication today.

Reston said it was clear Khrushchev was using the interview to announce that Russia's stake in the Mideast was so great that it would not hesitate to use military force to protect its interests in the area.

Warning that Turkey would not last 24 hours in a Middle Eastern war, Khrushchev said:

"If war breaks out, we are near Turkey and you (the United States) are not. When the guns begin to fire, the rockets (missiles) can begin flying and then it will be late to think about it."

Trails Earth-Satellite; First Time Seen in U.S.

Connecticut
'Moon Watcher'
Reports Sighting

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—The third-stage rocket of the Russian satellite was sighted officially for the first time in the United States today.

The telescope sighting by a Connecticut scientist was confirmed here by the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, world headquarters for tracking the man-made moon.

James Plato, a member of "Operation Moonwatch" in Connecticut, spotted the rocket at 4:23 a. m. c. s. t. from atop New Haven, Conn., State Teachers College.

Plato said the rocket looked like a "faint star."

Rocket Trails Satellite

He saw the rocket for 30 to 40 seconds. He said it appeared as a third or fourth magnitude star, 40 degrees above the horizon at a 45-degree angle.

Plato was scanning the northern horizon with a telescope when he made the sighting.

The rocket is trailing the earth-girdling satellite. The satellite itself never has been seen officially in the United States.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek of the Smithsonian laboratory confirmed Plato's sighting. Hynek also reported that the first photograph of the rocket had been taken Wednesday at Newbrook, Alberta, with a Super-Schmidt camera. He said officials presume the photograph was good.

Rocket Will Crash

Laboratory officials also received a message from Sydney, Australia, reporting sighting of both rocket and the satellite. Hynek said the report showed the rocket trailing the satellite by about 700 miles, indicating the gulf between the two was widening.

He said this meant the rocket definitely will crash.

Hynek hailed as a "remarkable achievement," if true, a report from Stanford University in California that the rocket had been picked up on a radar screen there.

He said such a feat had been considered impossible. The radar screen also apparently got back a faint signal from the satellite itself.

Final Rabies Vaccination Clinic Saturday

A final rabies vaccination clinic sponsored by the Harrisburg Humane society will be held at the shelter near the fairgrounds from 1 to 4 p. m. Saturday with owners or hunting dogs being reminded especially of the event although it is for all dogs not vaccinated this year. The price is $1.75. Nameplates also can be secured.

Folsom Urges Use of Salk Vaccine To Deal Knockout Blow to Polio

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marion B. Folsom, secretary of health, education, and welfare, said today Americans can deal paralytic polio a "knockout" blow within the year by using the Salk vaccine now on hand.

He warned that millions of persons under 40 who have not been vaccinated "are needlessly risking disability or even death."

Folsom and Surgeon General Le Roy E. Burney reported a "dramatic" reduction—80 per cent—in the number of paralytic polio cases during the past two years.

They said there were 1,576 cases of paralytic polio so far this year compared with 5,241 in the same period last year and 7,886 during the corresponding 1955 period.

Only 63 cases were reported among the 28 million persons who received all three polio shots, and not all of these have been confirmed.

Folsom said in a statement that Salk vaccine, while not the sole cause of the sharp decline in the incidence rate, played a "major part" in the accomplishment.

He said those who have not been vaccinated should arrange to get together their shots now when supplies are plentiful so they will get the triple-dose protection before the next polio season begins next spring.

If supplies on hand are used, he added, "it is possible to give paralytic polio a knockout blow within the next year."

Folsom said more than 37 million Americans under 40 have received vaccine protection at all while another 44 million have taken only one or two shots of the necessary three.

It could be a "tragedy," he said, if the vaccine remains unused because of public apathy.

He said the Public Health Service, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the American Medical Assn., state and territorial health officers, and the advertising council will pool their resources this fall in a big "get vaccinated" campaign.

Test Illinois Water Areas for Radioactivity

DUNDEE, Ill. (AP)—The chief of the Illinois State Water Survey has announced a comprehensive water test program is underway to determine the "natural" radioactivity of Illinois waters.

William C. Ackermann told of the test program Wednesday at a meeting of the state Board of Natural Resources and Conservation here.

He said the study was begun to obtain data on "normal" radioactivity so that artificial changes in the amount of radioactivity of Illinois water may be detected after installation of atomic energy power plants and other atomic installations.

In samples tested so far, Ackermann said, Illinois surface waters show radioactivity present in an amount less than one-half the maximum safe limit for drinking purposes over a person's lifetime.

He said water samples are being obtained from:

The Apple River at Hanover, Rock River at Como, Fox River at Dayton and Algonquin, Kankakee River at Wilmington, Vermilion River at Pontiac and Lowell, Illinois River at Peoria, Sangamon River at Oakford and Monticello, Kaskaskia River at Shelbyville and New Athens.

Also at the Embarras River at Ste. Marie, Spoon River at London Mills, LaMoine River at Colmar, Hadley Creek at Berry, Skillet Fork at Wayne City, Little Wabash River at Carmi, Big Muddy River at Murphysboro, Cache River at Forman, and two locations on Crab Orchard Lake near Carterville.

Hill Names Six New Members Of School Board

The six new members of the Eldorado city schools board of education were announced today by Gratton Hill, left alone on the board when six members resigned last week.

Hill, given the power of appointment by law, said the following had accepted the posts of school board members:

Atty. Ralph W. Choiser, Amos Pulliam, Robert Finnie, Frank Gray, Charles "Pete" Carner and Marshall Cox.

Hill, who earlier had said he hoped to name three Republicans and three Democrats, said Choiser, Finnie and Pulliam are Republicans, Gray, Carner and Cox Democrats.

He said he also had hoped to name two members from each of the three school areas and that he succeeded with one exception.

Hill said next order of business would be an organization meeting to elect a president and secretary of the board and to appoint a school treasurer. He would try to have it called for tonight, he stated.

Three Physicists

Blame Eisenhower, McCarthyism, Free Competition on U. S. Lag

CHICAGO (AP)—Nobel Prize winner Dr. Harold C. Urey and two other famous physicists have put the responsibility for America's lag in satellite production on the doorstep of President Eisenhower, McCarthyism and free competition.

The administration's estimates of Russian scientific progress caused complacency, while with hunts upon scientists drove men from the field, and free competition merely resulted in too many cooks spoiling the broth, they said.

The charges were made in reply to a newspaper questionnaire asking the scientists' views on the Soviet launching of a man-made satellite.

In addition to Dr. Urey, Dr. Samuel K. Allison, director of the Enrico Fermi Institute for Nuclear Studies, and Dr. John A. Simpson, a member of the committee that planned the International Geophysical Year, were questioned.

Cite McCarthy Factor

Urey said administration spokesmen encouraged people "to think the Russians were not as effective as they are in science. I refer specifically to remarks made by the President."

It would be profitable to drop complacency, witch hunts, and "thinking only in terms of economy," he said.

Referring to loyalty investigations of scientists involved in government projects, by the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) Urey said "it is almost impossible to believe McCarthyism" did not have the effect of harming the satellite program.

Urey cited the cases of Dr. Edward U. Condon, now at Washington University in St. Louis and formerly chief of the U. S. Bureau of Standards, and Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, one of the men who perfected the atom bomb.

Both, he said, were the sort of men who could have made valuable contributions to the satellite program.

Allison seconded Urey's charges, saying scientists were "reluctant to take on government work on classified projects" as a result of the type of security investigation made.

America's position in satellite production, however, could perhaps be more directly traceable to other factors, Allison and Simpson said.

Holders of government contracts "keep their ends from each other," Allison said. "We could have gone faster if we'd had a big, central laboratory with complete and rapid exchange of information."

The President told him that little things like the Dover incident are "happenings all over the place" and one doesn't know when and where "they are coming to blow up," Gbedemah said.

Orange juice was omitted from the traditional American breakfast of bacon, eggs, toast and coffee served at the White House. The Ghana official said he believed Eisenhower "did that on purpose" because it was orange juice that a waitress in a Howard Johnson restaurant at Dover refused to serve him.

Cousin of Mrs. Ralph Burroughs Killed in Plane

Floyd Gossage, former resident of Eddyville, cousin of Mrs. Ralph Burroughs, 910 South Webster street, Harrisburg, was one of three men found Wednesday in the wreckage of a plane near the Manitoba-Ontario, Canada border.

RCAF para-rescue personnel from Winnipeg recovered the bodies of pilot Don McLaren of Kenora, Canada, Rev. George Carlson, pastor of the Marquette Manor Baptist church, Chicago, and Floyd Gossage, Chicago.

The bodies of the Chicago men will be returned to that city, Friday and the funerals and burial will be in Chicago Sunday.

Floyd Gossage, son of the late Margaret and Alonzo Gossage of Eddyville, leaves his wife, Faye, and two daughters, Eloise and Norma; two grandchildren, his sister, Mrs. John Zimmer, Chicago, and his brothers, Cecil Gossage, Leslie Gossage, Lee Gossage and Van Gossage, all of Chicago, and Harold Gossage, Eddyville.

Asian Flu Shots

Given City Workers At First Clinic

The first clinic for the immunization of city employees against Asian flu was held in Harrisburg today. Dr. Frank P. Skaggs announced that due to the shortage of vaccine, the first shots were given to the employees in essential services, i. e. policemen, firemen and employees of the water and sewage departments. There will be more clinics as the vaccine is made available.

Dr. Skaggs reports some mild cases in the city, but none have been definitely diagnosed as the Asiatic type due to the long laboratory examinations required to define it. He assured the people of Harrisburg that there is no cause for alarm at this time. Recommended precautions are the careful treatment of all colds and fevers and a check with the family doctor of colds or fevers. Dr. Skaggs further stated that the very young and the very aged are most susceptible to the flu and the best safeguard is the keeping of the body in good physical condition and a reasonable avoidance of crowds.

Report Russian H-Bomb Blast High In Space

Confer Amid Demands In Congress for Speed-Up Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower met with the National Security Council today to discuss Russia's spectacular accomplishments with the intercontinental ballistic missile.

The session began amid demands for a speed up of the U. S. effort to perfect the so-called "ultimate weapon."

The meeting lasted about two hours.

William M. Holaday, special assistant to the defense secretary for missiles, sat in on the conference.

The U. S. satellite program—"Operation Vanguard"—was also discussed.

Eisenhower summoned Dr. John P. Hagen, Vanguard director, and other top scientists working on the program to the Security Council meeting. Dr. Alan T. Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation, and Dr. Detlev W. Bronk, president of the National Academy of Science, were among those present.

Lending new urgency to the reappraisal was a report the Russians may already have exploded an H-bomb borne high into space by an ICBM.

Congressional Democrats joined by New Hampshire Republican Sen. Styles Bridges moved ahead with demands for a searching reappraisal of U. S. missile and satellite programs.

Bridges said the Russian breakthrough, although not a cause for hysteria, warrants a thorough investigation of "our immediate and long-range" missile and satellite objectives. The Senate Preparedness Subcommittee already has launched an inquiry to determine if the situation warrants a broader investigation.

Amid the sound and fury kicked up by the Sputnik, the armed forces began removing "bottlenecks" to speed up their missile programs. Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy, who took over his new job Wednesday, said the United States also is considering speeding up missile testing to get them into operational units faster if possible.

The United States is changing its satellite plans to put one in orbit in December. Plans for test satellite launches had been announced previously. But scientists said then that no attempt would be made to aim the 6-12-inch test spheres into an orbit around the earth.

Eisenhower said Wednesday, however, that plans now call for putting the December sphere into an orbit. He also pinpointed March as the month for launching this country's 20-inch satellite. Previous plans called only for firing it in early spring.

Braves Win World Series

NEW YORK (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves won the World Series today, beating the New York Yankees, 5-0, in the seventh game.

The Braves took advantage of a Yankee fielding lapse in the third inning today and went on to knock Don (Perfect Game) Larsen out of the box or take a 4-0 lead and then made it 5-0 in the eighth when Crandall lined a 3-2 pitch from Tommy Byrne, the fifth Yankee pitcher of the game, into the left field stands for a home run.

The Yankees loaded the bases in the ninth inning, but were unable to score on Burdette, who was hit third game of the series for the Braves.

Prevent That Fire!

The country has constantly dined into its ears the need for greater safety on its streets and highways. It hears altogether too little about its very serious losses
from fire.

With National Fire Prevention
Week now in the picture, it is fitting to examine this situation. Proper attention may help to halt a dangerous rise in the total of fire
damage across the nation.

Last year U. S. fire losses came to $989,290,000. That was a record. In 1937 the figures are still more frightening. After eight months the total was $706,333,000,
representing a gain of 6.8 per cent
over the comparable period of 1936.
If this pace is maintained through
Dec. 31, then for the first time
in history the country's fire losses
will pass one billion dollars.

Insurance experts and fire officials make some allowance, of
course, for the fact that inflated
prices have affected the totals.
The cost of replacing buildings and equipment and furnishings has
soared in the past decade or more.
But even after compensating for this factor, they say, the totals are alarming. There are far more fires than there used to be.

Fifteen years ago 650,335 fires
were reported, including 311,280
classified as building fires. In 1956
the total of all fires was 865,561,
of which 408,932 were building
fires.

One can say, perhaps, that the country today has many more
buildings and many more people
than in 1942, hence the increase
is no great surprise.

But the National Board of Fire
Underwriters says that in the 10
years ended Dec. 31, 1955, fires
from four of the five leading causes
could have been sharply reduced
through education.

The five chief causes, in order
of importance, were: matches and
smoking, 26.36 per cent of fires;
misuse of electricity, 14.69 per cent; lightning, 9.85 per cent; oil
and its products, 6.99 per cent, and
stoves, furnaces, pipes and boilers, 6.76 per cent. In terms of actual dollar losses, misuse of electricity was the most damaging.

Carelessness in the use of matches
and in smoking is a personal
matter which individuals must manage to guard against. The other
"controllable" causes involve
teaching people how to use dangerous materials and equipment,
and inspecting regularly—not just
occasionally—homes, commercial
places and public buildings in search of defective apparatus and other fire hazards.

Gov't Aid to Needy Increases Despite Record Prosperity

CHICAGO (AP)—The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago today reported government aid to the needy is increasing despite the nation's record prosperity.

The bank said in its monthly
review, "Business Conditions,"
that U. S. public assistance programs are disbursing double the amount they did in 1947—three billion dollars compared with $1,500,000,000.

The increase was due, the bank
said, partly to the rising cost of living and partly to the percentage
increase in the age groups of the
very old and the very young,
which receive most of the assistance.

Almost half of the six million
persons on assistance payments
were over 65, and the rest were mostly dependent children and
persons caring for them.

Another reason for the seeming paradox was the migration of farm groups, particularly from
the south, to the big city in search of lucrative jobs. Social and financial maladjustment resulted from the uprooting, the bank said.

shire against efforts of New York

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
John Foster Dulles Lost His Bargaining Position With Gro-
myko; Earth Satellite Came At Wrong Time; Turkey Almost Went To War Against Syria.

WASHINGTON. — Andrei Gromyko got his first introduction to Washington as the dour, uncom-
municative secretary of the Soviet embassy on 16th Street. He lived not far from the White House
in the mansion once owned by Mrs. Pullman of the Pullman Car
company, whose president was Robert Todd Lincoln, son of Abe Lincoln. That residence, however, was Gromyko's only connection with American tradition.

John Foster Dulles first saw Washington as a young adviser to his uncle, Robert Lansing, secretary of state for Woodrow Wilson; his grandfather, John Foster, was secretary of state in Benjamin Harrison's cabinet; and John Foster was steeped in American tradition. His great ambition
was to become secretary of state.

I do not know what Andrei Gro-myko's ambition was, or whether
a Communist bureaucrat is supposed to have ambition. But I do know that Gromyko eventually worked up the Communist ladder
until he became ambassador in that old Pullman mansion on 16th
street, and later minister of foreign affairs.

Simultaneously, John Foster
Dulles had come from one of the oldest, most renowned law firms
on Wall Street to become a specialist in foreign affairs, then secretary of state. Both men officially were equal, but unofficially
Dulles was always able to talk to Gromyko from a position of prestige and power—the prestige of his background and the power of
having the H-bomb, the A-bomb,
and the greatest air force in the world.

Last week, however, that situation was reversed. As these two men sat down in Dulles' colonial mansion overlooking Rock Creek,
our secretary of state found himself talking to a man whose country had developed the intercontinental ballistic missile, a new
jet transport, and an earth satellite which electrified the world.

There could have been no worse
time for John Foster Dulles to have held this talk. But he had
to. Events in various parts of the world were slipping away
from his government.

I do not know the specific details of what the two men talked about, but I do know that before
they began talking this was what faced John Foster Dulles. This was why he asked Gromyko to sit down face to face.

1. The Turkish ambassador had been calling at the State Department repeatedly to warn that Turkey was not going to stand still while Russia built up a vast
arms base in Syria to the south,
and kept a Russian fleet three times the size of the U. S. 6th Fleet to the north in the Black Sea.

2. Turkish Prime Minister Menders had hinted to the American
embassy in Ankara that Turkey
might take things into its own hands regarding the big Russian
arms base in Syria unless President Eisenhower makes a bold
move to halt Russian expansion in the Near East.

3. The Lebanese government has informed the State Department in blunt and vigorous language that the Russian timetable
is scheduled to take over all the Near East—within one year.

4. The Israeli government has told the State Department that there will be little use having a NATO army protecting western Europe from Russia, if Russia

takes over the Near East and can
cut off oil to supply the NATO
army, plus oil to supply the factories of Europe.

WAR BARELY Averted

These ambassadors and prime
ministers were not kidding.
When the prime minister of Turkey talked about moving in on Syria, the State Department knew
he meant it, for, one month ago,
Turkey almost marched on the Syrian city of Aleppo. And the American public never knew how close the Near East was to war in mid-September.

One reason the Turks didn't move is because they haven't been able to get assurances from the United States of NATO support
in case the Russian fleet started bombarding the Turkish coast in support of its satellite, Syria.

The State Department hasn't said yes, and it hasn't said no. It just hasn't said anything. It doesn't want to see our good friend and ally, Turkey, squeezed
between a Russianized Syria on the south and the Russian fleet
on the north. But at the same time it doesn't want to risk a world war.

That's one of the reasons John Foster Dulles had to talk with Andrei Gromyko.

RUSSIAN TIMETABLE

The Russian timetable in the Near East has not been published,
but Arab diplomats friendly to the West feel sure they know what it is.

It is first of all to consolidate Russian gains in Syria; develop
airports, the harbor of Latakia,
highways, irrigation projects; and
make that country a model Arab state, completely dependent on Russia. Once Syria is certain of Russian support, here is the schedule.

A. Syria will work through agents in Jordan to assassinate or overthrow King Hussein. Then
the new government of Jordan
will propose a union with Syria.
Since this will be an internal
move, not foreign aggression, it won't come under the Eisenhower
doctrine. We couldn't intervene.
B. Six months later, King Saud
will be assassinated. He was nearly assassinated last spring
and another attempt on his life
was made last month. Crown Prince Faisal, the king's brother,
who doesn't particularly like the
king, will succeed him and move
for unity with Syria.

C. The tiny country of Lebanon, half Christian, half Moslem,
will be relatively easy to take over next.
D. Iraq, bigger, richer, and a member of the Baghdad pact, will be tougher to absorb, but the Russian timetable calls for it to be annexed to Syria in about 18
months.

If that timetable is followed, the Near East, which holds 70 per cent of the world's known oil reserves, falls into Russian hands.
With it will eventually go domi-
nation of northern and central Africa, with the uranium of the Belgian Congo. This would put the Suez Canal virtually under Russian control, together with two pipelines across Syria.

Israel would be the one democratic outpost of the West in a Russianized Arab world—if she can hold out.

These were some of the reasons
why John Foster Dulles considered it imperative to talk with For-

Minister Gromyko. He was prepared to talk tough—to talk
from the background of his vast experience as an international
lawyer and grandson of a secretary of state; with the power and prestige of the United States behind him. He hoped to draw a line in the Near East beyond
which Russia could not go without risking direct action from the United States.

But he could not talk tough.
For Gromyko's country now had
the ICBM, and just one night before had launched man's first
break with the earth.

Hospital Notes

Admitted:
Mrs. Ray Harbison, Eldorado.

A coat means more than warmth to a woman with fashion on her mind. Often she picks a tweed ensemble that offers suit and coat possibilities. A costume suit by Brigrance (left) features a three-quarter length black and white British woolen nubby tweed coat with contrasting black slim skirt. A longer-than-short coat suit by Hattie Carnegie (center) stands out in its rich relict-toned tweed. Modified belt on jacket accentuates new silhouette effect. A solid color tweed steamer coat (right) has reversible appeal with inside pattern in beige, brown and black.

CLASSES FOR PROSPECTIVE MOTHERS

A second class for prospective parents was started in the main office in Harrisburg of the Egyptian Health Department on Monday. These mother and baby care classes are taught by the public health nurses to expectant parents to aid and assist them in assuring that happy, healthy babies are born to understanding and prepared parents.

Mother and baby care classes cover a period of twelve hours and they meet from 1 to 3 p. m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. All doctors in the community have been notified about these classes and are very familiar with the instruction given to their patients. The subjects discussed in the classes are nutritional needs of the mother and family, supplies for the infant, birth of the infant, care of the new infant, practice in giving care, and the care of the baby during the first year.

The guide used for the teaching of these classes was developed with the help of the United States children's bureau and has received national approval from medical and nursing programs. Any expectant mother who might wish to attend these classes should talk it over with her doctor. The class is made up of patients referred by their own private doctor.

Many people in the community are beginning to realize that classes for expectant parents are a necessary community service. The Egyptian Health department nurses are looking forward to helping the community by rendering this service.

THE STORY: In spite of warnings, Sarah Casement is drawn irresistibly into investigating the death of Grant Melville, a painter who fell—or was pushed—from his studio window. She has gone to Cape Cod, where she first saw Melville. Sarah's Aunt Grace is not at home, but Sarah will live in her cottage.

IX
The sound had come from inside the house. It was like the impact of a huge fist. The walls shook. The two women looked at each other, white-faced. They were both terrified. Their terror was instinctive, unreasoning, but it passed.

Carlotta was the first to recover. She jumped to her feet. "The front door," she exclaimed.

Sarah followed Carlotta across the bedroom to the tiny entrance hall. The door there was swinging on its hinges.

Carlotta shut it, working with the lock until it caught. "We had a party last week and I sent Tim Breck over to borrow Grace's big punch bowl. He must have left the door unlatched when he went out." Sarah was looking up the steep flight of steps painted blue and confined by off-white walls that were hung with etchings of London during the blitz. There was nothing in sight, nothing alarming no sound . . . and yet she felt it, surely and definitely. A presence. Someone or something near. Something that was just beyond the reach of her eyes and ears.

And then whatever it was with drew. If there had been anything

Before Carlotta left she insisted on going upstairs and looking thru the bedrooms. There was, of course, no one there and nothing out of order. It was after she had gone that Sarah discovered what was missing from her bedroom. It was the white blanket striped with black, a lovely angora tiro. Grace had picked up in Scotland. It always lay in a neat roll at the bottom of the bed. It wasn't there now.

The angora throw wasn't in the pink room either.

Turning away from the shelves with an armful of sheets, Sarah stopped moving. The window in the west wall was partly obscured by vines. Above the vines a dark shape was silhouetted against the last of the light. The dark shape was a man. The man was crouched forward, peering into the tiny room. His face was unrecognizable, a pale, featureless blur.

Sarah's mouth went dry. Every thing at once fell into place. The man was a vagrant. He had been living in the house, sitting in the chairs, moving them around. When she and Carlotta came in without warning he had hidden upstairs, then he had made his escape by way of the front door, leaving it unlatched behind him. That was why it had banged. He was the one who had taken the angora throw. There was something malign, threatening, about his crouched figure. He might be a criminal hiding out in an empty house, might be covering her with a gun. . . . There was nothing between them but a frail barrier of glass.

The man stood up straight. He raised a hand. Sarah drew a long shaky breath and collapsed against the shelves, weak with astonishment. The man was Tom Gillespie.

They met on the terrace outside the ping-pong room at the back of the house.

"What are you doing in Corn wall?" Sarah demanded.

"Just what I was about to ask you," Tom Gillespie said.

He looked different in a plain shirt open at the throat, a strong pillar-like throat, and corduroys stuffed into hunting boots. There was no recognition in his voice or manner of that kiss he had given her the night before.

It was cold out and they went inside and he told her about it over highballs in front of the living-room fire. He said that after he left Sarah the night before he and Mrs. Melville had had a talk over the phone and Mrs. Melville had suggested the trip. Grant Melville had a cottage up in the hills to which he had been coming for years to paint, and she thought it might be a good starting place. He had a lot of friends and acquaintances here, including his first wife, who had also married again—a Mrs. Satterlee.

"Oh?" Sarah said. "I know the Satterlees, at least I've met them about. Pleasant people—they have an art school up the road. They're only here in the summer, they run another school somewhere on the Keys in winter."

Tom Gillespie had flown to Boston that morning and then across the bay to Provincetown, where he had hired a car—which explained his early arrival.

Tom Gillespie liked it. "These old places are delightful—mind if I look around?"

She wasn't going to have a solitary evening, and he didn't have a chance to do more than saunter into her bedroom and admire the fireplace — "Pre-Revolutionary brick you've got here"—and the paneling—"this is the real McCoy"—when there was a rap on the kitchen door and Steven Task walked in.

No man could move as fast or sit as still or relapse into thought more deeply than Steven. Whatever he did he did thoroughly and completely.

"Sarah." He gave her a hug, kissed the tip of her nose, put his hands on her shoulders and held her off, a smile of pleasure on his face. Wide forehead, commanding nose, a massive jaw and chin—he always made her think of what one of the better Roman emperors would have been like.

The Marbles

MEMPHIS (AP)—Mothers in a neighborhood here started checking when their youngsters came in from play smelling strongly of camphor. It was discovered that one boy had taken moth balls painted their various colors and traded them to the neighborhood children as "perfumed" marbles.

CD Director Asks Radio Amateurs to Monitor Soviet Satellite

CHICAGO (AP)—State Civil Defense Director Robert M. Woodward has asked Illinois' 8,000 radio amateurs to monitor the Russian satellite revolving around the earth.

Woodward said the amateurs could help scientists trace the Soviet "moon's" path and longevity. He directed that any information gleaned by radio "hams" be given the Vanguard control center at the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D. C.

More than 300,000 Americans, including those in military and diplomatic posts, now call Germany their temporary home.

Thinking It Over
By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Writt n for NEA Service)

Sleep is one of life's mysteries to which we give little concern. A certain amount of rest is required every day in order to keep our bodies and minds functioning in their normal manner. This requirement is not easily explained from the standpoint of mere mechanical activity.
One might well believe that the body could continue to function until it wears out as does a motor or a light bulb. Is it possible that nature replaces worn out parts in this brief respite? If it is so, where are the replacements stored? Is it possible that the body contains some kind of "refueling" station? Answers to these questions and many more can partially be explained by physiologists.
Regardless of the technical process which takes place, the revitalization occurs in a way developed by God alone. All of God's ways are superhuman. His way with the spirit of man is even more mysterious and amazing. Let us thank God for His gifts which we use whether we can understand them or not.

News from the State Capital
Governor William G. Stratton has received a report from safety officials indicating that September traffic fatalities are down 30 per cent from the 1956 figure. Robert Campbell, superintendent of the Division of Traffic Safety, made the report.
Projected figures for September Campbell said, indicate a total of 127 traffic deaths compared with 181 in September 1956. The 127 figure is a projection of reports received up to October 1. Final figures will be available October 15. Campbell told Governor Stratton the new figures put Illinois approximately three per cent under the 1956 toll for the first nine months of the year.
Eighty-nine of 151 Illinois cities with a population of 5,000 or more reported no traffic fatalities during the first six months of 1957, according to a report submitted to Governor William G. Stratton by Director E. A. Rosestone of the Department of Public Works and Buildings.
The report also showed that 29 cities recorded fewer accidents during the first six months of 1957 as compared to the same period in 1956.
Forty cities showed a reduction in the number of deaths due to traffic accidents.
The Illinois Department of Agriculture announced encouraging results from the first phase of its fight to keep the deadly soybean cyst nematode out of Illinois. Tests show that not one soybean cyst nematode has been found on Illinois soil thus far.
The cyst nematode is regarded as one of the major threats to Illinois farming. It is capable of destroying entire soybean crops and, according to Director Stillman Standard of the Illinois Department of Agriculture, is too dangerous even to bring into the state for research purposes.
Standards reported that soil samples from 16,000 acres on 353 Illinois farms have been tested in a special state laboratory on the state fairgrounds. "The results show there is no cause for immediate alarm," he said. He urged all Illinois farmers to consult their farm advisers to acquaint themselves with the details of the problem.

Volunteer Workers Are Needed By VA Hospital
The Veterans' Administration hospital in Marion needs more volunteers. An appeal for these volunteers was made today in an announcement by Dr. C. Davee, manager of the V. A. hospital.
An orientation course for volunteers will be conducted by James H. Blake, Chief, Special Service, at the Marion VA hospital on Wednesday, Oct. 23, beginning at 9:30 a. m.
Voluntary service in VA hospitals is a program under which members of the community contribute their services for the benefit of ill and disabled veterans. Volunteers in no way replace staff members, instead, they provide ingredients beyond the scope of a busy professional staff; a touch of home . . . a feeling of belonging . . . a bond with the world outside.
Volunteers, under the VAVS program, are valued members of the hospital team. They assist the hospital's professional staff by carrying out their assigned duties on a regular schedule. On-the-job training is provided the volunteers by the assigned services after attending the O&I Course.
Volunteers are active in each VA hospital in the entire U. S. They can be found everywhere in the hospital supplementing the work of the VA staff. Dr. Davee indicated that at the Marion VA hospital volunteers serve in the following programs: Library service; nursing service; recreation service; corrective therapy; chaplaincy service; hobby work; and in personal services.
The VA hospital in Marion serves the veterans in a three state area, Illinois, Indiana, and Kentucky, all within a hundred mile radius of Marion.
Dr. Davee reported that at the present time volunteers from the following communities are performing voluntary services at the Marion VA hospital: Marion, Harrisburg, Mt. Vernon, Creal Springs, Carbondale, Murphysboro, Zeigler, Johnston City and Benton.
Individuals interested in answering this appeal for volunteer service at the Marion VA Hospital are asked to contact the Hospital, MARION 1215, for further information.

Benson Urges Farmers to Support Drive To Repeal Federal Price Support Floors

SIoux Falls, S. D., (AP)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson urged corn belt farmers today to back his drive for repeal of federal price support floors on corn and other major crops.

An artificially high support price on farm crops drives customers away and "means lower farm income," Benson said in a speech prepared for delivery at the National Mechanical Corn Picking Contest here.

Benson recalled he has asked Congress to repeal the 75 per cent of parity support floor under major farm crops. He has also urged repeal of the flexible support formula under which price supports drop when surpluses pile up and rise when surpluses decrease.

"If these formulas are not modified, the stage is set for surplus number two as soon as we reduce surplus number one," Benson said.

In addition, he said, the administration wants to drop federal acreage controls for corn and leave the control of corn supports to its own discretion. Under current farm law corn growers in 24 major producing states are subject to acreage allotment controls.

Benson said farmers have turned

ed against the allotment program. Benson's plan to repeal mandatory support prices and the flexible formula won practically no support from farm belt legislators when it was unveiled last summer. Today's speech was one of a series in which the administration's top farm spokesman is seeking to rally farmers behind his new program.

Benson said if price supports are used to hold farm prices at artificially-high levels farm income can be held up temporarily but "control over the individual farmer's operations inevitably passes out of his hands and into the hands of government."

"I do not believe it is what farmers want," Benson said.

The agriculture secretary said net farm income will be higher this year than last because farm prices are up and heavy farm exports are cutting into surpluses.

Nickell Says Medical Checkup Will Determine Re-Election Plans

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Republican Vernon L. Nickell said today "the big determining factor" in whether he seeks a fifth term as state superintendent of public instruction next year will be a medical checkup he plans to undergo later this month.

Nickell is 66. He would be 67 by the time the primary rolls around next April. Also he is recovering from a serious illness that kept him in the hospital for several weeks not long ago.

If he does decide to run for re-election, and he hopes to make his announcement before this month ends, Nickell said he expects two of the issues that will come up in the campaign will be: His role in the Dunbar school food hauling contract and his policies toward alleged school segregation in some areas of the state.

Nickell awarded an exclusive contract, since canceled, to Sangamon County Probate Clerk James W. Dunbar to haul federal surplus foods to Illinois schools. Both were indicted in Cook County for allegedly conspiring to defraud the state.

Worked for integration. But the Dunbar case does not give the Democrats a solid issue, Nickell said in an interview in his office here, because the indictments were "thrown out of court."

On the subject of segregation, Nickell said a report already has been published in one Chicago newspaper indicating that Nickell was failing to withhold state school aid from districts which practiced segregation in violation of the state law.

But Nickell said he has no power to withhold aid from individual districts, that is the duty of the county school superintendent.

Also, Nickell said, his office requires the chief administrative officer of each school district to sign a sworn affidavit that the state school code, including its prohibition against segregation, is being

Dedicate Sam Rayburn Library

BONHAM, Tex. (AP)—The Sam Rayburn Library was dedicated Wednesday in what former President Harry S. Truman called one of the great events in the nation's history.

The white marble building will hold the books, papers and mementoes of the veteran congressman who has been speaker of the House longer than any other person.

Rayburn, a Democrat, said he hopes his library will remain open for many generations.

"I trust that it will be a benefit to all mankind," said Rayburn, a member of the House for 44 years and perennial chairman of Democratic national conventions.

Says Help Backward Nations

Kennedy Calls for Re-Examination Of Entire Foreign Aid Program

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) urged Wednesday night the U. S. trim its industrial recovery program in Europe and instead concentrate on saving backward nations from poverty and communism.

The young senator spoke before 1,500 persons at the 30th anniversary dinner of the Economic Club of Chicago.

The Massachusetts Democrat, considered a possible Democratic presidential contender in 1960, called for a re-examination of the entire U. S. foreign aid program, which he said is "not adequate to the challenge of the underdeveloped nations."

To aid the backward countries, Kennedy suggested new programs of business investment, utilization of America's agricultural surpluses, and the building of a free world "economic community."

He said the gap continues to widen between wealthy industrial nations like the United States and the poverty-stricken underdeveloped nations.

Field for Communists. The end result, Kennedy said, can only be "tragedy for us as well as them."

"We can still re-examine our course, not as Democrats or Republicans... but as a world leader as a good neighbor, as an enlightened people," he said.

The non-Communist world cannot remain "half rich and half poor," Kennedy continued.

He said new nations as Ghana, Tunisia and Indonesia are fertile fields for the Communists who offer them technical and barter agreements, small economic programs and propaganda.

Kennedy blamed much of the world poverty on an "overwhelming and utterly unprecedented world population explosion."

Asks Seed Capital. Kennedy said the time has come for the U. S. to stop its emphasis on the industrial recovery of Europe because that job is largely completed.

"We need a new program of investment," he said, "for the underdeveloped areas of the world, a program which would act as 'seed' capital to private investment, both from this country and from Europe."

To implement this, he proposed that Congress broaden the authority and increase the capitalization of the new International Development Fund.

He said the U. S. also should study ways of disposing of America's agricultural surpluses in underdeveloped countries which could use them as a "capital asset" by freeing human resources for building roads, industries and other capital improvements.

Controversial Jurist Dies

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—William Clark, controversial former U. S. chief justice in postwar Germany, died of a heart attack while on vacation here, it was reported today.

Clark was vacationing with his wife at Nuwaraeliya. She was at his side when he died.

Clark was 66. He was born in Newark, N. J., son of the founder of the Clark thread mills.

Clark was appointed chief justice of the Court of Appeals of the U. S. military government in Germany in 1948. He held that post until 1953 when he was dismissed in the climax of a long feud with then U. S. High Commissioner James B. Conant.

The controversy involved the question of court jurisdiction.

Mayor's Weight Paces His Job

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Rortians back from their recent European trip for the international convention were intrigued with the fact that in a small English town the mayor-elect is weighed before he takes office and when he leaves office.

If he has lost weight, it is assumed his administration was successful.

Lane Returns from Police Convention

Chief of Police Ross Lane has returned from the 20th annual convention of the Policemen's Benevolent and Protective Association of Illinois as a delegate from Harrisburg Unit 105.

Chief Lane was appointed to the Legislative committee at the convention, held at the Abraham Lincoln hotel in Springfield.

Officers re-elected included: Joseph Hogan, first desk sergeant of the Springfield police force and a member of the state legislature, president; Curtis E. Hoggatt, Peoria, first vice president; William J. Flynn, Champaign, second vice president; Donovan A. Saunders, Rockford, treasurer; William H. Peterson, Alton, recording secretary; and John T. Dillon, Joliet, financial secretary.

Huge Fireball Crashes in West

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—A "huge fireball" hurtled over several western states and narrowly missed striking a Navy plane before it crashed in the vicinity of Myton, Utah, near the Colorado-Utah state line.

An air traffic control spokesman here said the plane was almost hit by the fireball which shot across the pre-dawn skies over Denver at 5:05 a. m. c. s. t.

The spokesman said the plane followed the fireball and saw it crash 20 to 30 miles from Myton, where it apparently had set off a number of fires.

The fireball also was seen over Rapid City, S. D., and Dalhart, Tex. There were other reports that it was sighted over Wyoming.

There was speculation the "fireball" might be part of a rocket that put the Russian satellite in an orbit around the earth late last Friday.

A CAA official in Denver said the fireball was the largest he had ever seen. He said it appeared to be blue and was trailing long streams of flame.

Experts See No Need Now To Stimulate Nation's Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional economic experts believe there is no need for pump stimulants into the national economy at this time.

The experts, taking note of economic forecasts colored by "pessimism," said the question of stimulants need not be considered until spring.

"By that time," they said in a study report, "it should be clear whether economic conditions and prospects warrant a change from present fiscal policies."

DRIVERS ESCAPE SERIOUS INJURY—The drivers of these two demolished trucks escaped serious injury when the heavy vehicles collided on Route 13 near the DX service station in Shawneetown at 3:15 p. m. Tuesday.

The mishap occurred, according to investigating officers, when the huge tractor truck and trailer driven by Roscoe Bonham, 52, of Norris City loaded with a large Caterpillar tractor, pulled on to the highway from Shawnee avenue and crossed the center line as the loaded coal truck driven by Clifford Partain, 51, of Crab Orchard approached from the west.

The coal truck was crushed into accordion shape by the impact and overturned on its right side. Partain got out of the demolished cab and walked from the wreckage with only bruises. Bonham was removed from the cab of the tractor truck and rushed to the Ferrell hospital in the Wright ambulance where he was treated for cuts about the face and neck.

State Patrolman Bill Adams stated that charges probably would be filed against Bonham today (Thursday).

Both vehicles were towed to the Porter & Kent garage by the firm's wrecker service.

Warn Motorists Most Dangerous Months Ahead

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—State traffic safety coordinator Robert A. Campbell warned motorists today that "three of the most dangerous months of the year" for driving are approaching.

"Although the Illinois traffic death rate has been dropping steadily for the past three months,

he said, "now is no time to become careless."

Campbell said drivers should take a warning from last year's record when 619 motorists were killed on Illinois highways during October, November and December.

"With darkness coming earlier and poor weather conditions likely; much of the time, the accident potential is up and will require extra care by drivers," he said.

In the first three months of the state's new speed limit law, traffic deaths have declined. The toll was down 26 per cent in July, 17 per cent in August and 30 per cent in September, as compared with the same months in 1956.

AROUND SPRINGFIELD

By DON E. CHAMBERLAIN

Samuel Young Expected to Resign
Post Under Carpentier on Dec. 1

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special)—Further changes in the office of Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier, East Moline, are scheduled after return of the Secretary from a European vacation. He is now crossing the Atlantic on the liner United States, as a member of the American Legion Past Commanders Peace Pilgrimage to Europe. He is scheduled to return about November 1.

Samuel Young, Evanston, former president of the Illinois Young Republicans, is expected to resign December 1 as Carpentier's "good right arm" to resume private law practice with a prominent Chicago law firm as well as do some political fence mending preparatory to contesting for the Republican nomination for state treasurer.

Young, should he decide to make the race for treasurer, may face two formidable foes and perhaps more in the primary Warren Wright, Park Ridge, twice elected treasurer, threw his hat in the ring earlier this year. Incumbent Treasurer Elmer J. Hoffman, Wheaton, who is barred from succeeding himself, reportedly is grooming his assistant Conrad F. Becker, Red Bud, for the nomination.

The primary could be a warm one. Young would be expected to have strong backing from Carpentier, Illinois' top state office vote getter (he led the state ticket in 1956 defeating his opponent by more than 600,000) and perhaps from Gov. William G. Stratton Wright, an independent, had little trouble winning the nomination in 1954 over Becker and Robert J. Branson, Centralia.

on shape within a few weeks because of Stratton's reported desire for an early agreement on a GOP state ticket. Illinois House Speaker Warren L. Wood, Plainfield, reportedly dimmed hopes he might run for treasurer. Wood is said to be more interested in a fifth consecutive term as Speaker.

Names of candidates for the Democratic nomination for treasurer are expected to appear shortly as that party quickens organization activity on a statewide basis. Listed as possibles for Democrat treasurer are David F. Mallett, East St. Louis, who lost by 8,941 to Wright in 1954; and State Reps Paul Simon, Troy; Alan J. Dixon, Belleville; and Robert T. McCarthy, Lincoln.

Mallett has made the trip for state office twice. He lost to Wright in 1954 and to Carpentier last year. Simon, young newspaper editor, authored the "right to know" law in the last legislature and McCarthy was prominent in his nearly successful efforts in abolishing capital punishment in the state. Dixon helped pass the proposed judicial reform amendment to the constitution.

Should Young resign Carpentier could pick his successor from within his own office or rehire C. Richard Hodgman, Chicago, whom he held over from the regime of former Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett, Chicago, for several years. An office choice could be Robert Cronson, Springfield, or C. E. (Jack) Nelson, East Moline, both department heads.

Cronson could be the one. He formerly headed the securities division in Carpentier's office, resigned early this year to practice law but returned to Carpentier's fold last week to again supervise securities as well as the corporation department. Previous to Cronson's return, Young, in addition to being assistant to Carpentier, has supervised securities, corporations and the elections department.

Nelson presently heads the automobile department. He replaced William B. Westbrook, Harrisburg, transferred to the automobile title division. He formerly was chief of automobile investigators in the Secretary's office. However, Cronson's return to again supervise securities and take on corporations is interpreted by some as meaning he came back as an understudy to Young.

Bull Dogs Travel to Centralia Friday Night For South Seven Tilt

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs, with a 1-1 mark in South Seven conference football play make that long trip to Centralia Friday night to engage in battle with the fancy Orphans.

The Orphans, a very fine ball club, is sparked by Mickey Step-toe, a junior who holds the conference 440-yard record. To date Centralia has beaten Benton 15-7 and Belleville 13-6 while tying Herrin 13-13 and being nipped by Col-

linsville, 21-20.

The Orphans have a good-sized line which includes 225-pound Rocky Mackie and 184-pound Ron O'Neal at tackles and 209-pound Dick Flanagan at guard.

Last year Coach Jim Evers' outfit won the South Seven championship.

Harrisburg Coach Lawrence Cal-

uffetti announced yesterday there would be no changes in the line-up he has been using in other games this year. This means he will have Don Pickford and Bud Logan at ends, Jack Simpson and Ron Maynard at tackles, Gary Aldridge at one guard and Bill Endsley and Darrell Biggs alternating at the other, Allen Buchanan at center, Ray Hassett at quarterback, Mickey Stone and Bill Yates at halfbacks and Ed Price at fullback.

Benton Plays at Herrin

There will be but one other South Seven game this week-end — Benton at Herrin. Mt. Vernon will be host to Fairfield, West Frankfort will entertain Murphysboro and Marion will have Johnston City as the Wildcats' home opponent.

Other games in southern Illinois will find Norris City at Eldorado, Metropolis at Cairo, Sparta at Christopher, Mt. Carmel at Salem, Albion at Sesser, McLeansboro at Shawnee, Carbondale University school at Zeigler, Anna at Du Quoin, Pinckneyville at Elkhart and Chester at Carbondale Community high.

After the trip to Centralia the Bull Dogs will have three home games before winning up the season at Benton. The remainder of the schedule: Oct. 18, Herrin here; Oct. 25, Carbondale here (Homecoming); Nov. 1, West Frankfort here; Nov. 9, Benton there.

Breslin Picks Notre Dame Defense to Halt Army

By JIMMY BRESLIN

NEA Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA — (NEA) —

Nothing—news of man-made satel-

lites or intercontinental missiles—

can convince Subway Alumni that

we're in a new era more than the

Notre Dame-Army contest, the big

one of the year so far, Saturday

The last time the mob went to

a football game, it cost 10 cents

to get to Yankee Stadium for 1946's

scoreless tie. On Saturday, they will lay out $3.75 one way for the trip from New York to Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium.

THE SUBWAY ALUMNI are, of course, New Yorkers, a large number of whom graduated from grammar school, who consider Notre Dame their true alma mater. At one time quite active, they have been on the shelf for 11 years now

On Saturday, if vocal cords are still intact, they'll whoop it up for the Irish. And they may be in for rough sledding. For this is the big test for Terry Brennan's comeback

forces. After shutting out Purdue

and Indiana, Notre Dame's improved defenses will get a searching

test from what most believe is the best Army football team Coach

Earl Blaik has assembled since the

cribbing episode of 1950 wrecked

his program.

Against Penn State, the Cadets

put on a third-quarter exhibition

of how to knock opponents down

as they fired off tackle for 177

yards in three successive drives

which led to a 27-13 victory.

DAVE BOURLAND, VIN BAR-

TA, Bob Anderson and Pete Daw-

kins form a once-typical West

Point backfield. They are active,

hard runners who get the extra

yardage. Moving behind a line

headed by Stan Slater, a quick

starting, aggressive guard, Jim

Kernan, captain and center, and

two out-sized tackles, Fred Wil-

moth and Bill Melnik, the Cadets

were tabbed favorites over Notre Dame following the Penn State

showing.

But if you are to believe in football scores, Notre Dame's defense

could change the picture radically.

Purdue, which could do nothing

against the Irish and wound up

shut out, played strongly in a 21-17

loss to Minnesota, a Big Ten powerhouse, and probably would have

won except for fumbles.

The word from South Bend, since

the start, has been of a more active line which makes fewer mistakes. Bronko Nagurski, the 230

pound tackle, has come along strongly. Al Ecuery, a junior

guard, and ends Bob Wetoska and

Dick Prendergast are not fooled

as they were last time around.

THE KEY, THEN, is in the line

—as it always is in football. For the Irish backfield as a unit—Bob

Williams, Aubrey Lewis, Jim Just

and Nick Pietrosante or Chuck

Lima—does not, on paper, stack

up with Army's.

This is the big one and it figures

to be a close, bitter game, the winner of which is likely to come out of it a fine, confident college

ROSEWALL BEATS KRAMER

STOCKHOLM — Australia's

Ken Rosewall beat Jack Kramer

of Los Angeles, 8-6, 6-2, before 3-

000 spectators in Royal Hall Wednesday night. In the other pro-

tennis singles match, Pancho Se-

gura scored a 6-1, 6-2 win over

Lew Hoad of Australia.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

A new stadium has been completed at the Carmi high school

football field, giving the school a very fine grid plant.

The lighting is said to be the best in the area, the seats are

equal to any and the press box

comes in for special praise from

Roy O'Neal, Carmi sports editor.

The press box can handle from eight to ten persons with ease.

It has several electrical outlets,

making it possible for a writer to

plug in an electric heater, or even

a coffee maker. There also are small high's over the writing board,

in addition to the large master

lights.

A new high school conference

has been organized—the South Six

—with Hurst-Bush, Carbondale U.

High, Trico, Steelville, Cobden and

Shawnee the members. The league

will award basketball and baseball titles.

...

Have received a post card from

Orlando Scott, 411 North Walnut,

Du Quoin stating—"We are an independent, uniformed basketball

club. We would like to book some games. Would you please pass this information to any team interested?"

Anyone interested write Scott

at the above address.

...

One veteran football official admits having trouble following the ball when the Eldorado backfield

goes into action. The official is quoted as saying "I can't recall

seeing a team behind which I had

a harder time following the ball

There's nothing more embarrass-

ing to an official than to blow

his whistle and find the ball somewhere else.

"This Eldorado club is so deceptive that I don't even trust

myself to keep the whistle in my mouth. I wait till I see the ball

before killing any plays."

...

Equality's high school basketball

prospects look very good, with nine

lettermen among the 30-player

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

The recent 70th General Assembly passed legislation requested by Governor Stratton which established new absolute speed limits in Illinois.

ILLINOIS SPEED LIMITS
CARS	65
BUSES	60
TRUCKS UNDER 4 TONS	55
TRUCKS OVER 4 TONS	50

The top speed a passenger car may be driven on highways outside urban areas is 65 miles per hour. There is an exception to this. On toll roads or other limited access roads, such as U.S. 66, the limit may be raised to 70 miles per hour.

The law also contains a prohibition against driving at a speed greater than is "reasonable and proper." For instance, if a motorist is traveling at the maximum 65 miles per hour on a section of road coated with glare ice where a reasonable speed would be less than 30 miles per hour, he is subject to arrest.

The speed limit in urban areas is 30 miles per hour. This may be reduced, but not to less than 20 miles per hour. And a portion of the law provides for a 15 miles per hour limit in alleys.

There is also a minimum speed regulation in the new law. This permits the Division of Highways, the Toll Road Commission, or local authorities the right to post minimum speeds to prevent motorists from impeding the normal and reasonable movement of traffic.

No Smiles in Russia: Mrs. FDR

WASHINGTON (UP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt told an American women's "Congress on Better Living" Wednesday night that during three weeks in Russia she never saw anyone laugh.

"I have a feeling" the Russians "have sold their souls for a little economic security," she said.

Mrs. Roosevelt also said she "never saw a well dressed man or woman" during her tour.

The Soviet people, she said, "have no idea what the rest of the world is like." They consider it normal for a family of three to live in one room, for five families to cook in one kitchen and for 18 persons to share a bathroom, she said.

Mrs. Roosevelt renewed her suggestion that the administration admit more Russians to the United States. She expressed doubt that the Russian government would allow many of its people to visit America, and said the U. S. could gain a propaganda advantage thru offering to allow more Russian visitors.

Nation Has Spectacular Record of Medical Insurance Under Voluntary Program

BY JACK V. FOX
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—The United States has achieved in 25 years a spectacular record of insuring its people against medical costs—and under a completely voluntary program contrasted with Britain's compulsory and socialized medicine.

The facts are, however, that there are still approximately 55 million Americans without any health insurance whatsoever.

There are about 75 million without surgical insurance, 110 million without insurance on medical expenses outside hospitals. Three-fifths of our people who live on farms have no health insurance at all.

About half of the people aged 65 and over have no medical insurance nor do two-thirds of our families with incomes under $2,000 a year.

Welfare Secretary Concerned

These figures come from Marion B. Folsom, secretary of health, education and welfare in the Eisenhower administration. Folsom is deeply interested in health insurance and pioneered a Blue Cross plan some years ago when he was with Eastman Kodak.

The federal government these days is contenting itself largely with urging private enterprise to extend and improve voluntary coverage. This largely passive role came after several sharp congressional rebuffs.

President Truman, during his administration, fought for a compulsory federal health insurance program to be financed by payroll taxes, like social security. Congress rejected it as "socialized medicine" in a long and bitter wrangle.

Eisenhower, during his first term, came up with a plan to set up a federal fund which would "re-insure" insurance companies that were willing to pioneer in extending coverage to catastrophic illness, comprehensive policies, insurances for groups not now covered.

That proposal was defeated overwhelmingly by the House of Representatives. The current administration proposal is to exempt smaller insurance companies from anti-trust laws so they can pool their resources and undertake more venturesome plans.

Folsom has been pushing mainly on these points: Coverage of catastrophic illness; development of comprehensive, one-package plans; Coverage of older persons; Coverage of patients outside hospitals; Higher ceilings in surgical plans; Better coverage of rural families, those not members of organized groups and those with low incomes.

The federal government also has intervened in policing misleading advertising on health insurance.

The attitude of the medical profession has been of prime importance.

From an initial resistance to any outside pressure which would interfere with the traditional relationship of doctor and patient, most of them realize that the alternative is some sort of government plan. For a second, many doctors are now getting bills paid—and paid quickly—as never before.
